

Current Event: The Corporatization of Veterinary Medicine

Veterinary medicine continues to evolve at a rapid pace. Historically veterinary clinics have been owned by one or two veterinarians and then sold to an associate veterinarian. One of the biggest changes in the last few years is the rapid buy out of veterinary practices by corporate entities.

Share your thoughts as to why this change is occurring and what impact you think it has on the veterinary profession.

[illegible]

