Student Leaders Prepare for the 93rd National FFA Convention & Expo

INDIANAPOLIS (Thursday, Oct. 1, 2020/National FFA Organization) – In a few weeks, FFA members and supporters from across the country will celebrate agricultural education and agriculture during the 93rd National FFA Convention & Expo, Oct. 27-29.

This time-honored tradition will look a little different this year, as it will be held virtually.

FFA members representing all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands are expected to participate in the virtual event. It's an opportunity for students to be exposed to new career paths and opportunities – while celebrating the accomplishments these future leaders have made over the past year.

Throughout the week, national convention and expo attendees will also experience the FFA Blue Room, which showcases cutting-edge technology, research and innovation in agriculture. Through experiential learning and specific focus on the most critical challenges facing our communities – from respecting the planet to feeding the world – the FFA Blue Room will inspire and equip students to activate their potential. The expo will also be available in live and on-demand sessions, where participants can learn more in live chats. In addition, attendees can participate in student and teacher workshops, which will be available on-demand.

Even though the convention will be virtual, FFA members will still connect with others via Zoom through a member experience room. And in October, FFA members across the country will participate in National Days of Service in their local communities.

General convention sessions will be aired live on RFD-TV and The Cowboy Channel. FFA members and supporters can tune in and watch gavel-to-gavel coverage of the event. To learn more, visit convention.FFA.org.
